Hidden Word

“When sinners accept Christians, it is because the Christians are not standing for something.” - Jean Cade

The other day I was discussing a friend of mine with my mother who was good friends with a lot of unsaved friends that did not judge her or harass her for her faith, which was surprising due to the extent their sin had taken them.

When I talked to my mother about this, shocked myself that the events had taken this turn, she told me that maybe it was happening this way because my friend was not standing for what she believed in. As people, we can relate to sinners. As Christians, we cannot. When we are around unbelievers, we must be a light. We must act in a way that reflects what we believe. When they start cursing, they should feel uncomfortable due to our reputation. When they get involved in sin, we should stand up or leave.

If we do not show that we do not and will not live like them, we are no different than them. We must be a light. We must guide them. We must stand up for our faith so they know what we believe, and so that they know that they are living contrary to everything we stand for.

Otherwise, we will blend in to the world, which is exactly what Satan wants.
